Many Republicans now took for granted the "electoral lock", the Southern bloc, and Republican control of the executive branch. Kolb, who served as the President's Deputy Assistant for Domestic Policy, tried to push the Bush administration toward a more vigorous reform agenda. Even though the actual policies being implemented in many respects were really at odds with Reagan's core philosophy, the country had not woken up to the fact that under George Bush's stewardship federal spending along with the deficit was spiraling upward, taxes would start creeping up again, and regulatory policies would impose billions of dollars of new burdens on the public.
